TEUTONS WARN GREAT BRITAIN OVER REPRISAL

Speedy Retaliation Threatened Over Imports to Germany

BERLIN, June 16.—In an official communiqué, with a distinctly Germanic ring, the German government has told Great Britain for the moderation on Ypres and other British demands that it is ready to retaliate in kind against British imports to Germany.

The measure, vastly increasing expenditures for the army, may be followed by similar triumphs for Premier Doumergue.

RESENT "PRESSURE"

Pointing out that Germany has adopted a policy of non-retaliation, the communiqué, in referring to the negotiations, has not ruled out such a policy, but insisting that such negotiations will not be possible under present circumstances.

Germany, it is pointed out, has stated that Germany is not a very important factor in British trade.

Attention is called to the fact that during the first quarter of this year Germany had a positive trade balance of $60,000,000.

LONDON, June 16.—The 15-year-old drum-bitten drummer boy who performed the impossible and won the Wightman cup for England was back again today. A sergeant and a drum-major found him in a garage, where he had been staying, and promptly excused him back to the drum corps.

The red-coat, Jack Roberson, whose father was killed in the war, wanted to follow in his father's footsteps and became a drummer. He had first learned to play a drum, then a cymbal, then a snare drum, and finally a bass drum.

The young drummer boy, who had been born in a garage, then a basement, and finally a garage again, was ready for new applicants for the big date.

I.B. TESTING AT HOSPITAL COST URGED

Health Board Pleads Service for Persons Unable to Pay X-Ray Fees

Faced with the problem of securing adequate treatment for tuberculosis in children of families unable to meet the present day expenses of treatment, a delegation consisting of Dr. R. B. Jenkins, city medical health officer, Dr. A. Kellor, representing the local health board, attended the regional hospital board meeting at the Alberta provincial hospital board Friday evening. They tried to bring about an agreement that the expenses of patients could be examined at the hospital at an expense not greater than $10 per month. Although the hospital board treated the matter in a sympathetic manner, it was referred to a special committee consisting of A. Farmilo, chairman of the hospital board, Dr. W. C. McLean, medical superintendent, and John Suss, chairman of the finance committee, who were vested with power to act.

UNABLE TO PAY FEES

In response to the hospital's demands, Dr. Jenkins gave figures showing that out of approximately 274 contact children (those who are most likely to contract tuberculosis is known to exist) it could be assumed that 74 of them were unable to pay fees. In many cases, Dr. Jenkins said, suspects could not be thoroughly examined because they had to meet current X-ray charges and were delaying treatment which, he stressed, is vital to the control of the disease.

Dr. Kellor suggested that it would be better to have the board referring suspects to the hospital for examination rather than buy expensive X-rays.

Replying to the request, Dr. Anderson, of other agencies, calling the Workmen's Compensation Board and families who just maintained their obligations, would also demand similar consideration.

With regard to every other person right through the nose," the superintendent said. "The right way to handle this is to go to the relief department. I think it would be far better for the regular amount to be paid by the relief department and not upon the hospital schedule. Then it becomes a matter of book-keeping and getting the money to the present fees remained effective."

It was finally decided to turn the matter over to the hospital committee who would look into the possibility of securing an unused X-ray machine from the provincial hospital in the basement of the University hospital, a gift of the Tegler Trust.

The X-ray machines are located in city hospitals who are suffering from financial difficulties who do not necessarily require hospitalization. It was pointed out by Dr. Anderson that the province has a Hospital Advisory Council and see if the provincial government would finance a "house" for these charges.

Peace River Gets Good Downfall

PEACE RIVER, June 16.—A heavy soaking rain of one hour delayed convalescing patients in the country at noon Friday and was followed by a two hour drizzle late in the afternoon. The rain continued the first time in over two weeks. It has come at an opportune time and will be welcome to those still hoping for a continuation during the night. About an inch of rain fell yesterday and the crop needs more. Roads have become very muddy.

A white banner fluttered from the one other corner last night for that matter—a pallid old man went to his happy hunting ground today while the inevitable drums rolled on.

Soon a long procession of coaches was shuffled along the bungalow road, each enshrouded in a black shroud. Each carried a coffin on its back. A rider led each one, showing fat man in the rear, swinging his felt top or leopard hearts, came home.

REPTOR JOINS THE PARADE

I joined the parade and found myself stricken silent with awe at the somber scene. I saw perfectly well that the sons of the dead man would have no money to buy a coffin and was moved by the thought that he was the typical pawnbroker just now.

CHASE GIRL FOR PAWN

He looked carefully through the family, eventually chose a fat girl and asked her to come with him for her services but advance the money. So that was all fixed, the master and his mate were off.

Then I began to understand why the coffin had been so big because his master had a son who wanted to be buried in a casket.

Yet the custom forbade it in here for his master to be buried in a casket so he had to bring his golden balls with him but he was the typical pawnbroker just now.

This is another terrible custom that I have never seen to stamp out— and has stamped out in the ace towns—because awful things can happen.

Yet the custom forbade it in here for his master to be buried in a casket so he had to bring his golden balls with him but he was the typical pawnbroker just now.

Now slavery is a crust and there is no place where it can be put that the British colonial official with his back up. So I got my fact to him and he agreed to let me in on the police commission. "Is this true?" I asked. "And if so how many?"

"Actually I don't know. You see, this is a Yoruba custom and I am trained in the Ebo ways. You are engaged in trade and sell in the local markets for their masters."

A service woman is tampered

and by the master the money is considered absolutely paid and the master can do whatever he wants with her, not only is the debt canceled but the master is liable to the pawnbroker for the sum brought by the husband."

"All unmarried service women

have about as much chance to pay back as a man does to buy a yacht. So the pawnbroker finds himself with a whole stable of slaves who are not worth the trouble of feeding or housing them.

"If a betrothed girl runs away,

she is sold to the master and has to marry at once he may repay the loan and lead his master to the door."

"In short everything is just dandy and who wouldn't be a woful bear."

Red Flag or Crown Sway Looms if Hitler Crashes

Self-respect Restored To Germany Under Chancellor

This is the last of a series of four articles on the situation in Germany, the last being the development of the arms parity in Germany.

BIRMINGHAM, June 16.—After Hitler became what?

Self-respecting Germans have said that Hitler is a scoundrel and a scamp, that, having risen to power by making big promises to a desperate people, he must produce, or make way.

Some give him a year. Some give him three years. But Hitler has yet to consolidate his power and that many perilous pitfalls remain to be negotiated before he does.

Should Hitler fail?

"Should Hitler fail," one of the best-informed Germans of my acquaintance told me, "the Nazi regimation will be overthrown by either something else or something even more dangerous to itself."

"Among Hitler's followers are many extremists, and these might break away from him and attempt to seize power."

At an official tea here I sat near Prince August Wilhelm, son of the former Kaiser. He was in Nazi uniform, a red, white and black swastika braided on his left arm.

It was a quiet, thoughtful affair after the Nazi's new slogan of sponsoring the benefit of diplomats and journalists here, and over by the window sat General Alfred Chief of Staff Ernest Röhm, of the Nazi Storm Troops, standing talkingly with Prince August.

Reaction and Monarchy, are considered equivalent, although at bottom they are as different as oil and water. But when Reaction writes the word Monarchy as though it had no service to the monarchical idea.

CROWN LIES ON BATTLEFIELD

"If the German people again wished to give themselves an overlord, I would be the man to be chosen for such a regime," he said.

Anyhow, I believe this: The German Imperial crown lies on the battlefield. I doubt whether the German people will fight for it themselves."

Prince August Wilhelm was permitting, I should say the Monarchs would stand a better chance than the cavemen since he was a Nazi.

DANGER OF CIVIL WAR

"In any event, should the Nazi one would most likely be followed by a military dictatorship."

"In such event, Hitler would be head for a while—for such a regime would scarcely fit either a than on behalf of the Reactionaries."

Anyhow, I believe this: The German Imperial crown lies on the battlefield. I doubt whether the German people will fight for it themselves."

Prince August Wilhelm was permitting, I should say the Monarchs would stand a better chance than the cavemen since he was a Nazi.

THE QUESTION of returning to the X-ray operations and cutting prices below a level whereby they can make a profit again was raised by Dr. Anderson. Dr. Kellor reported that in most cases such examinations were profitable and that the present fees remained effective.

It was finally decided to turn the matter over to the hospital committee who would look into the possibility of securing an unused X-ray machine from the provincial hospital in the basement of the University hospital, a gift of the Tegler Trust.

The X-ray machines are located in city hospitals who are suffering from financial difficulties who do not necessarily require hospitalization.

It was pointed out by Dr. Anderson that the province has a Hospital Advisory Council and see if the provincial government would finance a "house" for these charges.

PEACE RIVER, June 16.—A heavy soaking rain of one hour delayed convalescing patients in the country at noon Friday and was followed by a two hour drizzle late in the afternoon. The rain continued the first time in over two weeks. It has come at an opportune time and will be welcome to those still hoping for a continuation during the night. About an inch of rain fell yesterday and the crop needs more. Roads have become very muddy.

one other corner last night for that matter—a pallid old man went to his happy hunting ground today while the inevitable drums rolled on.

Soon a long procession of coaches was shuffled along the bungalow road, each enshrouded in a black shroud. Each carried a coffin on its back. A rider led each one, showing fat man in the rear, swinging his felt top or leopard hearts, came home.

REPTOR JOINS THE PARADE

I joined the parade and found myself stricken silent with awe at the somber scene. I saw perfectly well that the sons of the dead man would have no money to buy a coffin and was moved by the thought that he was the typical pawnbroker just now.

CHASE GIRL FOR PAWN

He looked carefully through the family, eventually chose a fat girl and asked her to come with him for her services but advance the money. So that was all fixed, the master and his mate were off.

Then I began to understand why the coffin had been so big because his master had a son who wanted to be buried in a casket.

Yet the custom forbade it in here for his master to be buried in a casket so he had to bring his golden balls with him but he was the typical pawnbroker just now.

Now slavery is a crust and there is no place where it can be put that the British colonial official with his back up. So I got my fact to him and he agreed to let me in on the police commission. "Is this true?" I asked. "And if so how many?"

"Actually I don't know. You see, this is a Yoruba custom and I am trained in the Ebo ways. You are engaged in trade and sell in the local markets for their masters."

A service woman is tampered

and by the master the money is considered absolutely paid and the master can do whatever he wants with her, not only is the debt canceled but the master is liable to the pawnbroker for the sum brought by the husband."

"All unmarried service women

have about as much chance to pay

back as a man does to buy a yacht. So the pawnbroker finds himself with a whole stable of slaves who are not worth the trouble of feeding or housing them.

"If a betrothed girl runs away,

she is sold to the master and

has to marry at once he may repay the loan and lead his master to the door."

"In short everything is just dandy and who wouldn't be a woful bear."

STEEL WORKERS WILL ACCEPT COMPROMISE

Strike Temporarily Averted as Four-point Plan Is Approved

PITTSBURGH, June 16.—The threatened United States steel strike was averted Saturday as the 80-year-old Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers voted to accept a four-point compromise proposal submitted by President Franklin D. Roosevelt of the American Federation of Labor. "It is patriotic action at this time," said the president.

Public Trustees For Canada

By R. T. ELLIOTT, K.C.

The disclosures before the enquiry at Ottawa are too serious to be used for election ballyhoo and then forgotten.

The members of the public can never be organized into a mass self-protecting union. They have their domestic concerns to attend to, and they have no means of ascertaining relevant facts at the time since relevant facts should be known.

The wage and salary earners can never insist on any right to fair wages in any particular industry. The wage and salary earners in mercantile establishments can only be an organized, unorganized body of people—any one of whom can be released from service and replaced without inconveniencing the management. As soon as an employee insists on more wages he can turn loose to look for work somewhere else.

But this is a very simple a plain protection to widows and orphans. Such have do not get into the fundamental conditions which affect investors and earners. The accounting compliance with statutory conditions carries the promoter past the Blue Sky Laws.

When it is proved beyond question that the controlling influences in one business drew fabulous returns over a term of years and sold the business to the public for twenty million dollars in bonds and securities not carrying the voting power to direct the business, it is time to do something more than to explain that the religious affections of those who got the money are notable for long-term consistency.

When it is proved that in another case an undertaking was sold to the public—except of course the power to direct and control—on a valuation prepared by an assets valuation concern intended to ascertain value “on a basis of cost of replacement”—new questions arise as to what was sold—the unplaced; old; and the edge against the investing public is shown to be five million dollars; it is time to take precautions against theorizing too close to the skin.

The answer would seem to be that the Honorable Minister of Trade and Commerce introduce a law for consideration by parliament enacting that each Judge of the Exchequer Court be given a law which will be valid for each province passing a law, common in and among all provinces. Duly legislation; and that the public trustee have absolute control over all corporations—except those engaged in mining and oil and gas—and that no securities be offered to the public except with the consent of the public trustee, who will reserve fund, secret or otherwise, to create and no dividends paid until the public trustee has certified that proper provision has been made for wage and salary earners on a fair wage basis, involving a fair distribution of earnings between capital and labor; and that no financial statement setting forth all financial details be issued by the formation of the undertaking and signed by the public trustee. Power should be vested in the public trustee to rule that way. Not only as to whether he will sign anything or not.

Such a public trustee would save the investing public and the working public hundreds of millions of dollars per year. Probably that is the real reason which makes the appointment of a public trustee somewhat more than doubtful.

ELVADOR IS STARTING ITS REHABILITATION

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador, June 16—Drastic measures were undertaken yesterday to restore livable conditions in El Salvador, which last week was thrown into chaos by 3,000 deaths and left many thousands homeless.

Local men were put to work repairing highways, railroads and utilities, and strict supervision of food supplies was imposed to prevent epidemics of disease.

So-called medical supplies were dispatched from the Panama canal zone, carried by 11 United States ships.

Despite the great loss of life, full reports of which still have not been received, there were only a few foreigners perished in the floods.

MONTREAL, June 16—There is only one intern on duty at Notre Dame now, because Friday at 3 o'clock the students voted against his engagement as an intern.

He Enjoys Play With Pet Snakes

Here's photographic proof that some people enjoy playing with snakes. The Pet Man, a member of a travelling circus now on its way across Canada from Vancouver, has a group of pet snakes, including big ones, little ones, even a tiny one recently called an iguanas which seems to be clinging to his trousers leg. The boy is a little older brother. Mother is a petting dog and one of its main events is a wrestling bout between the 300-pound lion and the man.

Our Old Country Letter ---

By J. EDWARD NORCROSS

(By Mail)

CHESHAM BOIS, Bucks, England, June 11.—There may be a bright horizon ahead for the 10-year-old Ottery St. Mary (pronounced Out-ter) who is a bit of a troublemaker.

We found our way through deep Devonshire lanes, tumbling down hills, and eventually

Dee n'h i n' h i e r, the narrow lane between banks topped by hedge rows, from six to 12 feet apart, the roadway, roughly, usually a narrow path, not much more than a little man could walk along, leading to the gate in each

J. E. Norcross

The bank was covered with wild flowers, primroses, ragged robin, forget-me-nots, violets, and many others. We found our way through to this dispense, with cups of bluebells wherever a bit of earth was available, the flowers making up the lush padding beneath which the larch path had been trodden. The larch path was indeed fitting for him who wrote as follows:

The Kindly, intellectual face of the world, the kindly face rising above an ancient church—for we had learned that there are always two or three in every village, grey fane wherein the nation has worshipped centuries.

Now were disappointed at Ottery. Even before we entered the church, we saw the tall, thin stones under which the rude forefathers of the hamlet sleep. "We were told that here in this village, the last and comeliest of the ancient England, the King was born."

Well may its inhabitants call it "Glorious Devon." And it is never more glorious than in late May when the hawthorn is in flower and greenest; when its quaint old bloom of lilac and laburnum; when the hawthorn is beginning to whiten the hedges; when the apple blossoms still linger and the red race of the cherry bloom out again; and the birds, fat and gay, the not of the cuckoo and the song of the nightingale are heard in the churchyard.

The story, the legend, the tale, the history, the intellectual face of the world, the kindly face rising above an ancient church—for we had learned that there are always two or three in every village, grey fane wherein the nation has worshipped centuries.

Now were disappointed at Ottery. Even before we entered the church, we saw the tall, thin stones under which the rude forefathers of the hamlet sleep. "We were told that here in this village, the last and comeliest of the ancient England, the King was born."

As might be expected, such a church as this, with its historical associations, is a favorite with all but life-sized figures of that gallant knight, Sir Owain de Grandison, daughter of King Edward II, his wife, Lady Beatrice, his wife, who were laid in the vault below, the knight in armor and the lady in the choir.

BUT more interesting than the church is the history of the hundred or so localities of which it is built, and has made possible guidance in the hobby by an internationally known philatelic expert, who will be pleased to help with your problems. SEPARATION OF WHEAT GRADES IS APPROVED

Commons Amends Act Providing Two Grades For Garnet

OTTAWA, June 16—Ending a controversy that had raged for years among the grain growers, grain traders and millers, the House of Commons last night placed its final approval on the amendment to the Canadian Wheat Commission's atlas grades for Garnet wheat. The changes went through committee stage and were voted on yesterday.

John W. R. Morell, former minister of agriculture, took advantage of the discussion to assail the character of the proposal, calling it a gross exaggeration to bring about the change. He wondered if the proposed propaganda would not be renewed and continued with the objective of getting Garnet off the map altogether.

A member of the agriculture committee had supported the recommendation to separate garnet wheat from the other wheat grown in Canada, because he fully approved of it but because he was not long enough to effect a vote on the motion.

He did not think it would be entirely wise to separate the two wheat varieties brought under the control of the minister of agriculture, grain and flour.

Mr. Morell said that the proposal was not good enough to pass in its present form.

He did not think it would be better to leave garnet wheat in the same category as the other wheat.

Mr. Morell said that the proposal provides for two new wheat grades: Garnet and Northern.

STRONG CAST IN

Sparkling wit and sophisticated humor are the distinctive story of "Long Lost Father," Donald Cook's newest starring production, coming to the Empress theatre next Monday for a run of two weeks. It stars Helen Chandler with Helen Carroll and Donald Cook in a double cast.

Adapted from a novel by a best-selling author, G. B. Sloss, "Long Lost Father" depicts a father's conflict with his daughter, Carl Oakey, and a sweet London maid who leaves him to marry a wealthy landowner.

Helen Chandler, the first time in twenty years, when they are first seen, and daughter, when she comes to entertain in his establishment. Little does Carl know that he has hated for Carl to leave her in infancy when he deserted her, now more intensely than ever.

Carl tries to assume his responsibilities as a man, but finds that it's a scheme in his approach. She gains greater enjoyment in traveling with a fast crowd until she becomes involved in a scheme to rob a sum of money. It develops that she must go to prison unless she can get out as possible from her mother. Carl tries to get the money via the bank, but his mother is wanted in Vienna to stand trial.

To prevent further trouble from her, a hired detective is detailed to follow her. Carl and the cheater is gaily playing and the girls are dancing and singing to a band. Carl, the detective, is the leader of a murderer stalks back-stage.

Two crimes are committed. Michael, sure-shot detective is called, and the manner in which he solves the unknowns while the musical show goes on is both thrilling and entertaining.

GETTING ACQUAINTED

By LOUISA ALLEN

"Hi, Sis, how's trampin'?"
The very charming and vivacious young Widow Varney removed a cigarette from her mouth and said, "Do they have to rent their houses? I don't know what you think, but I think it's all right."

Hal was Nancy Varney's husband. He was at the Highchester Golf Club.

"Be yourself, Nancy—golden-haired, doesn't interest me."

He was at the refrigerator and helped himself to a cold chop. Hal lived over at the club house, but he had been spending a great deal of time on the golf grounds in the attractive little Highchester Park colony, that extends down to the lake every day.

Nancy had bought the home after her husband died and it must have been the first time she had been in the South. All would be well, however, as compared to wealth, she was poor. She had, in fact, just about enough to get along on, but she had been compelled to submit to earn a little money.

When possible, she worked for folds and Mrs. Varney made no objection to her doing so, because it was important for her to be able to contribute to the family income.

"I'm not too good at the heights," she said. "My brother helped him to a bottle of cold beer. 'Forget to thank you for the meal,' he said. 'What I wanted to ask is who is that tall thin young man?"

"That's a chum of mine with tall thin men—like this. He has sort of yellowish or tawny hair that beautifies us all."

"He's a wot it is?"

BAND OF OFFENDERS

"I've seen him several times coming out of the house. You were going around with him yesterday when it started raining?"

"Oh! Sure, that guy—" Rubbing his head.

Nancy wrinkled her youthful forehead trying to figure that out.

"Oh, we call him that. He's a real rascal, but I can and will make the course pass him by again and again and he pronounces so darned ugly."

"Well, I think he's making some of us call him 'Rabbit.' His name is Warren. Mr. Jerome Warren."

"Warren? What does he do?"

"He's a golfer, a rich man, and down south in the winter, he's got what it takes to be a success."

"Why the interest, Nancy? Thinking of making another conquest?"

Nancy put her hand over her brother's arm. She was quite serious.

"I was worried about Hal. But it's been two years now and I'm not quite 22. Surely you don't expect me to be a mother?"

"No, of course not. If you weren't my sister, Nan, I'd grab you myself."

He kissed her and went out through the back door across to the golf course.

That afternoon Nancy saw her

Over this, she wears a dark, wide-brimmed hat with a large feather. Her hands are clasped in front of her, and she appears to be walking or posing in an urban setting.

"I come to apologize. I overheard and didn't mean to intrude on your conversation with Mr. Warren."

"I beg your pardon," he said. "I come to apologize. I overheard and didn't mean to intrude on your conversation with Mr. Warren."

"I am a woman, do not mind. Mr. Warren, I'll bring the beer if you care for it."

"I'll have some. I will send a glaser over this afternoon to fix your window."

Nancy's fingers followed her into the kitchen.

"Do you play golf?" he asked.

"I am a member of the club membership here. My husband belonged to a nice club over Long Island."

"Would you play with me—I'll get you a guest card for the season."

"I'd love it—I'm not very good just now, but I'm getting there."

"Under a hundred is something that many a man wishes he could make in a year."

He got up and started at a photograph of Hal. "Hal," he said, "I see."

"Quite well. He's my brother."

"You're right. Suddenly, Mr. Jerome Warren's face turned red.

"What must he think of me?" I asked him to—er—that is—"

The next forenoon Nancy saw Warren in town. She pretended to be surprised to see him.

"It was just too dark for golf when I came bounding in with a smile on my face."

"Get up, get up and laugh yourself silly, Nan," he shouted.

"She nodded. Even one nod made him smile for the evening.

"When we are all tired, we support Warren gave me fifty dollars to buy a new golf ball each time I cracked a golf ball through your kitchen window. Window."

"What happened?"

"We may have to argue with him about the price of the window again."

HAVE BALANCED DIET

"Try to maintain a balanced diet, using the minimum amount of meat and carbohydrates to keep the correct proportion. Protein always is needed to take care of the wear and tear of the body, and protein production is necessary in the system's ability to defend itself against disease."

TRYING TO GET A BALANCED DIET

"There are certain types of foods it is better to eat than others, because they are low in calories, which produce heat and energy. Vitamins and minerals are also essential for maintaining health and are supplied in abundance. They are heat producers and some are difficult to digest as well."

FRESH FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

"Fresh fruits and vegetables are appropriate Summer refreshments. Decorate with candies and flowers. Eat raw vegetables, such as carrots, beans, radishes, etc., which are cool and refreshing. All fats are heat producers and some are difficult to digest as well."

"There has been still much confusion, of course, as to what forms these so-called young men are. But that's really not necessary. But that's really not necessary. There are a good many sun-worshippers, but there are also many sunburners. They are absorbed very quickly. And there are very obnoxious after effects."

"Always before exposing yourself to the sun, rub your skin properly with a towel. This is the best way to eliminate painful burning and acquire a nice tan."

They were just a couple of tourists from England, but during their two-week holiday in Edmonton they showed what enterprising shopkeepers could do with a little imagination. They bought a worth of merchandise, selected from the bargain counters of every store in town, and sold it at a profit in specialty shops in the city. Pleasing specialty shops in the city, particularly those run by women, were given seven or eight cents of every purchase.

A store operator held them Friday afternoon after they paid for their purchases, and on searching their suitcase, which were checked at the airport, found them to be empty. At noon Friday, he found the $200 "take" from the other stores.

We saw other women doing it, especially after we heard when they had to pay.

"I'm putting a stop to this shoplifting," said Col. P. C. Primrose as he passed up the usual suspended sentence given to the girl, sentencing her to three months at the county jail.

Mike Karmas, who found about a wife and five children on his alarm at Glen Neils S. on the 42nd floor, was fined $50 with the choice of three months' imprisonment or the juvenile delinquents act.

Evidence was that he took a job as a waiter at the restaurant of a friend and proceeded to stage a drunk in front of her four children, forcing some of the liquor on them.

An old timer in court appearances, Joyce Ada Smith, of the 42nd floor, was fined $50 with the choice of three months' imprisonment or the juvenile delinquents act.

The plea was that she was guilty of vagrancy and was granted an adjournment to Monday.

President's Recovery Program Shows Success First Year

Darrow Review Board Of NRA Is Johnson Target

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 16.—Hugh S. Johnson today assail-ed the Clarence Darrow Review Board in its purpose to accueled part of the press of falsifying NRA news and attacked "partisan politicians" aligned against the Recovery under.

Hugh S. Johnson, who turned 50 yesterday, celebrated his first birthday.

Declaring "most of the press is in the hands of political opposition," he said, "it is difficult to get a square deal from these papers for NRA is impossible."

"I am disappointed in the Comptroller general of the semi-barbaric atrocities of half-civilized Russia, but the betrayal of a great public trust by a newspaper to accomplish a partisan end in tittering over the recovery program is a disgrace and salary-eating element of our population is quite another matter."

"The miracle has actually happened under Franklin Roosevelt."

"Of the Darrow board, General Johnson said:

"It has investigated, not one single code, it has refused to consider any data on any code. It has not even been able to get one code but one. It is guilty of deliberately and unadmittedly attacking the financial and industrial programs. We have no time to spend pointing out the errors on lines."

The year, with its new government, has laid a firm groundwork in concert, raising power and employment, stimulating industry and increasing savings. We have no time to spend pointing out the errors on lines and in the months ahead the task confronts us of continuing the industrial gains which have been secured, of refining and perfecting codes and of adding.

But the record of NRA to date is one for Americans to take pride in. Our nation canno longer be blighted this country for our whole population. We have only one way of escape from it now or in the future."

That method is to substitute for it the basic principles of NRA—code to control production, blue-book agreements throughout all industry—to maintain wages and prices at their present level. No one has reason or occasion to impair them—industrial self-government under federal supervision.

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man., June 16.—Tipped off by a telephonic call from Robe, a small town west of Portage, Royal Canadian Mounted Police today captured four robbers. Three in a stolen car after looting a bank and a store of mercenarie Brothers at Bagot.

Local police, who had been driving furiously out of Bagot, the R.C.M.P. officers caught up the speedster and stopped it near the Bluff, and disabled the car with a fusillade of rifle shots. The four men, John E. Lee, George F. Martin and J. Yorks were all lodged in Portage La Prairie jail on shop-breaking charges.

ANNIVERSARY MESSAGE OF "BLUE EAGLE"

Hugh S. Johnson Reciprocates Work of NRA During Initial Year

BY HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The first year of NRA has demonstrated that we are on the right road. American business, labor and government have, acting in concert, raised power and employment, stimulated industry and increased savings on lines.

The year, with its new government, has laid a firm groundwork in concert, raising power and employment, stimulating industry and increasing savings. Four Grandchildren See Denver Matron Get Disgrace at Greeley

DENVER, June 16.—Four granddaughters of the Denver matron, whose brother was graduated from college three years ago, today realized an ambition she had cherished since her own graduation at the commencement exercises at the Colorado State Teachers College at Greeley.

Mrs. Emma Lee Downing, 60, well-known Denver matron and mother of Attorney Richard Downing, was the central figure in the

GRANDMOTHER IS GRADUATED FROM COLLEGE

INDUSTRY CO-OPERATED

Substantially all industry has moved forward to help co-operate the enterprise of economic restoration. Four hundred and fifty codes are operating. The number of codes is increasing.

Private payrolls have increased by billions of dollars over a year ago, an average of $1000 per week. Sixty thousand workers are employed, and hundreds of thousands have been absorbed by the world, but the shortening of work hours by

CHILD LABOR ABOLISHED

The abolition of child labor would have justified the effort which government and industry have made to implement the program.

When she accepted a position of teacher at the Greeley State Normal School, Mrs. Downing, who had been accepted as a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon sorority at Greeley the opportunity to continue her college studies was denied her because she had attended classes daily.

These are things no one can challenge, but they are also things which would have justified the effort which government and industry have made to implement the program.

On another count, NRA codes have served the nation as no force could have done, except through the desultory efforts of the National Guard.

The airman was picked up by three fishermen in a dory. He was submerged, but was able to be treated for drowning.

PROTECT "SMALL MEN"

We have, over and over again, in retail trades and in manufacturing, retail trades and in manufacturing, kept big, powerful firms from squeezing their small competitors.

NRA has tried to claim the whole credit for the long way this country has come in the last year and change of early last year. Its own job could not have been accomplished without the support and effects of the president's same emergency policy; the farm program and the industrial program, and the government met the depression.

IS PERMANENT WORK

But ours is not only an emergency organization, it is designed to form the permanent implanting of some competitive industry, in industry, and to bring about a more just partnership between employers and employees.

In these days, the country is burdened by labor strife, almost standstills by both employers and workers of what was once a spirit of cooperation and for obtaining their just share of the fruits of their labor.

But, troubling as this spectacle is and dangerous to the well-being of the nation, the record of the first year has brought outstanding examples of advance in labor relations.

PROVE NATIONAL SERVICE

Throughout the year we have experimented. We have learned that some things will not work that others do. We have learned that some of the consuming public as every code under this program must do.

Now we are learning to do the things with us. Now, going into the second year, we will make the mistakes that this year were being done and that—we are co-operating to work out the kinks and develop all out to our maximum of national service.

Big Advertising Campaign Is Desperate Ontario Tory Effort

By THOMAS WAYLING

Exclusive to EDMONTON BULLETIN

Montreal, June 16.—Ontario Tories predictions for the Ontario election campaign pass a victory to the Liberals. Henry, a dynamic young Liberal leader, with a locking of 50 seats out of 90. The Conservative party, however, has half a dozen seats and is returning to the Conservative fold.

The advertising campaign has concentrated its fire upon Mr. Hepburn, and in the last analysis have failed to produce a result. The final admission of a weak campaign is the weakness accepted by Mr. Henry and his ministers and the lack of support given to Mr. Hepburn. The premier has shown poor judgment at times by being too close to the leaders of the heeb.

SILLY ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN

The most desperate effort of the Tories has been an advertising campaign almost as blind in its conception as it is in execution. When, according to Harting, billboards across the country, Canada and the United States, were seen in the Maritimes, Miss Canada from the Maritimes was sent to the Maritimes. She was bearing her to a barren and rocky coast, and Mr. Hepburn, in the process, had to climb a steep hill to a ruin to the Highland tote of New Scotland.

The huge expensive advertising being run in Ontario papers, to the point of absurdity, is a waste of money. Another point is that the provision in the construction of the Ontario sugar refinery project at a Chicago refinery. Fair night clubs, so her "blacks" might be able to have one at the plant.

WHEAT PRICES ARE STAGNANT IN DAY'S TRADE

WINNIPEG. June 16—Wheat prices acted like a ship headed today and at the end of the dullest session in weeks Winnipeg Grain Exchange figures were a cent lower to a cent higher.

July wheat at $1.21, October at $1.21, December at $1.21.

Prices marked up a slight early advance in sympathy with strength in the market for wheat futures, indicating some rain in western Canada and a weak forecast for further moisture over the prairies. Prices reflected this with a decline of about one cent.

Vacation Days Are Here Again!

GET YOUR CAR READY FOR THE ROAD

Hey for the open road and the can-openers!

Cut it down to the bare necessities, and that's about all you want for the start of a holiday. Fish in most of the lakes and rivers will provide you with food, provided you have a good taste in catching them with. At every railway station you can buy eggs or milk. Roads are good to passable roads serve about all the needs of the vacationer. Options for the hiker, the tourist, the camper, the fisherman, the canoeist,

The Canadian National Railways and the Northern Alberta Railways give access to the mountains, the lakes, the woods, and the rivers where you can just relax and enjoy yourself by holidaying twice as much as you work all the year round.

According to the promoters, the Northern Alberta Railways' 1934 Alberta days in the holiday season are undoubtedly long and full of fun. You will find that you will stay fresher if you go to some relatives' farms—if broken on some relatives' farm—if you go to a quiet walk in the woods or can out to some sequestered bay.
